The remedial order demanding that the Manitoba legislature pass legislation restoring separate schools reached Lieutenant Governor Schultz on Sunday afternoon and will be transmitted to the legislature in session to-night. Large crowds are expected to be present and it is not improbable that a hostile demonstration will be made. There is no doubt that the local government will not move from the position it has taken and that it will never recede from its determination to maintain the national schools.

THE Manitoba legislature discussing the advisability of decreasing the salary of their lieutenant governor. Mr. Fisher in speaking asked: "Could not the government house building be put to another use. He suggested it might be made a normal school. The constitution does not require that a man should be appointed for a vice-regal purpose, though it does represent royalty in a constitutional sense. If Mr. Scarth, for example, should be appointed, why should he not continue manager of the company for whom he now acts? All that is wanted is a business man to do a business act. Hon. Mr. Sifton moved in amendment that this house is of opinion that no expenditure should be made on account of the maintenance of government house; after the incumbency of His Honor, the present lieutenant governor; and that in no case should any expenditure be made on the said account after the termination of the year 1895."

A Halifax despatch of Thursday says: An alarming epidemic is raging among horses in this city and the disease is easily contracted by human beings who come in contact with the infected animals. Veterinarians pronounce the affection equine small-pox and many of the horses of Halifax are victims. The government veterinary surgeon has the disease in his right hand. Another man more seriously affected will have to have his arm amputated to prevent blood poisoning, and still another horseman is believed to be fatally ill as the result of handling diseased horses. The government veterinary surgeon says the disease is atmospheric and any animal is liable to contract it.

ELECTION OR SESSION?

The telegram which appears in another column stating that a session of parliament will be held on April 18th, is no doubt correct as expressing a present intention. But how far the intention will materialize is another question. It would be a great mistake to suppose that the definite announcement of a session—in the present state of political unrest prevailing in Canada—conveys any assurance that it will take place, or that it will continue for any certain length of time. A ministry is generally conceded the privilege of a dissolution of parliament at will, and certainly a ministry having such a large majority as that at present in office could scarcely be refused that privilege. That there are dissensions in the cabinet is well known, and that these dissensions may at any moment compel the ministry to demand a dissolution in order to avert defeat in parliament can easily be believed. Even in the face of this definite announcement of a session it will be well for all who take an interest in the coming elections—and that should include every person in the country—to keep a sharp look out for a sudden election.

THE BRIDGE.

Another step towards the construction of the long promised bridge has been taken and the site has been definitely located by order-in-council, dated 19th February, 1895. The government is to be congratulated on having at last reached a decision on this point. It is to be regretted, however, that the decision was not reached earlier in the season, especially in view of the demand made upon the town of Edmonton for a contribution towards the construction of the bridge. The appropriation towards a bridge at Edmonton was made some time last spring—nearly a year ago. The surveys which necessarily were the information upon which the department decided as to the site were made more than a year before that time, so that there has been no good reason for the delay which has taken place in the government finally committing itself to the work. Indeed although the government has committed itself to the bridge and to the site it is not yet committed to commencing work. The conditions imposed upon the town are of such a nature that if work is not commenced until they are fulfilled, it is likely to be a good while before the bridge is completed. It is not necessary to argue at the present time as to the propriety of the town being compelled to contribute $15,000 towards what is not only essentially a public work, but is the most necessary public work at present claiming attention in the Northwest. There is no question of propriety in the matter. If Edmonton contributes this money it will not be because it should do so but because it has to. The government having taken a certain stand on the question it will be for the ratepayers to decide when they are called upon to vote the money whether the advantage to be derived from the construction of the bridge, will be equal to the cost of securing it. In the meantime the question is: Is the proposition made by the government a business like proposition such as business men can accept? It certainly is a most unusual one. The aid to be granted by the town of Edmonton is in the nature of a bonus, and it is a rule in granting bonuses by a municipality that no money is paid until the work is satisfactorily completed. In this case it is demanded that the money shall be paid to the government before the contract is let. Of course it is quite right for the government, if they adhere to their demand for municipal aid, to be secured that any aid definitely promised shall be paid at the proper time. But on the other hand it would be very foolish of the town to issue and sell bonds to the amount of $15,000 in cash, and place the amount in the hands of the government, without any security as to the time when the bridge would be completed, or as to whether any greater amount would be demanded in case the cost of construction over ran the estimate, as government contracts have a habit of doing. From the moment the bonds were sold in order to raise the cash demanded they would be drawing interest, and it is not a business proposition that the town should begin at once to pay interest on $15,000, when the value to be received may not be realized for years, even supposing that no demand for a greater amount than $15,000 should ever be made.

So far the government has not been so prompt in reaching a conclusion in regard to this matter as to inspire fifteen thousand dollars worth of confidence in the celerity of their future movements. In view of the fact that the estimated cost of the bridge is $60,000 of which the government proposes to pay $45,000 and towards which only $25,000 is as yet appropriated by parliament, the people of Edmonton would scarcely be justified in locking up $15,000 worth of their credit and paying interest on that sum for an indefinite period merely to ensure that at some time more or less distant, when the government got ready, they would construct a most necessary public work. If the government will put their proposition on the usual business basis, the people of Edmonton will talk business to them. In the meantime they will be compelled to consider this latest proposition simply as another stand off. And indeed the delay that has already taken place leads almost infallibly to that conclusion. Very few towns of the size of Edmonton have $15,000 in the bank at command or available out of the year's taxation. Such a sum almost always has to be raised by the sale of debentures which can only be sold after their issue has been sanctioned by a vote of the ratepayers. Everyone knows that the vote on a debenture by-law is a lengthy proceeding. If the council took immediate steps to have such a vote taken and if the government was certain to be ready to go on with the work as soon as the vote was taken, the winter season, which is the only practicable time for building the piers, would have passed,—indeed it has already passed,—and nothing can be done until next December. The government was fully aware of these facts during the whole of last summer. The BULLETIN took the liberty of calling the attention of the government to the necessity of an early decision if any thing was to be done during the past winter. But although repeated efforts were made to get the government to move, nothing was done. Now that it has become too late to start, an effort is being made to place the blame of further delay upon the people of Edmonton, by making them an offer which as business men they cannot agree to.

ELECTION ADDRESS.

To the electors of Alberta.
GENTLEMEN.—As the nominee of the convention of Alberta liberals which was held recently at Calgary, and having been assured of a strong support by the patrons of industry in Northern Alberta, as well as at the solicitation of a large number of independent conservatives in this part of the country, I have the honor to offer myself as a candidate for the representation of Alberta in the Commons at the approaching general election. The stand which I take with the full knowledge and consent of those who have tendered me their support is that of an independent as to party, but not as to principle. On the main question at present at issue between the liberal and conservative parties, I understand that the organizations and individuals tendering me their support have done so with the wish and expectation that I would and will so far as lies in my power support the policy of a tariff for revenue as against the policy of a tariff for protection, which is the declared policy of the present government; on the ground that the protective policy discriminates unjustly against the western producer in favor of the eastern manufacturer.

Although holding strongly with the liberal party and also the patron organization on this point, I have not bound myself to either of these because I believe that the first duty of the single representative of so great a country holding such great possibilities as this district of Alberta, should be to use his every energy for the further development of this country and the realization of these possibilities; as he can not if he is to be subject to restraint by the exigencies of any party. This constituency has had party representation during the past eight years,—has been represented by a member of the party in power then and now. If the results have been satisfactory, that principle should be continued. If not it should be changed. It is because I believe that this system of party representation has been gravely injurious to this district that I have consented to make the personal sacrifice involved in my candidature, and because, so far as I knew, no other person was likely to come forward to advocate these or like views.

In a region so vast and varied as Alberta it would be impossible for any man at any time to define all the points of policy that would affect each locality, therefore I do not attempt to do so here. I hope from time to time, however, in the course of the contest, to have the opportunity to discuss the principal centres of population, all matters that may come up for discussion, in whatever shape they may appear. That such a vast region, having such a large population and such important interests should be accorded only one representative is as plain a case of injustice as is required to show the glaring failure of party representation to secure the people in even their simplest rights. The matter of railway extension and railway rates particularly in the north and the question of irrigation in the south seem to be the great questions affecting the interests of the district with which parliament will from time to time have to deal. I need not point out that while these are vital questions to Alberta, they are not party questions at all, and it is all the more necessary that your representative should be in a position to advocate your interests in regard to them in parliament without party hindrance even if he has to do it without party support.

Speaking generally I may say that I will support a policy of development for Alberta and while I will not bind myself to ask for favors for any section or interest I will bind myself to do all in my power to see that each section and every interest receives fair and equal treatment.

In conclusion I will say that although I have no personal interest to serve or ambition to gratify by entering upon this contest, yet having entered upon it in good faith I shall do all I can to win, and ask for the active assistance of every man who believes that the success of the principles which I have been selected to advocate would be in the interest of this constituency and of the country.

Respectfully Yours,
FRANK OLIVER.

EDMONTON, March 4th, 1895.

THE BRIDGE.

The following communication was received last week, addressed to M. McCauley as mayor of Edmonton. It is evidently the official communication to the town council regarding the bridge mentioned in the recent telegram of the minister of interior.

Department of Public Works of Canada.

OTTAWA, 7th March, 1895.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that an order-in-council was passed on the 23rd ultimo. (A copy of which is hereto attached) authorizing the selection of site No. 2, opposite the town of Edmonton, N. W. T., for the construction of the proposed bridge over the Saskatchewan river at that place, and to request that you will please see that the contribution promised by the town of Edmonton, viz: $15,000, which is equal to one fourth of the estimated cost of the said bridge be paid over to the government as soon as possible. This request is now made in accordance with the condition of the order-in-council, which states that no contract shall be given unless the deposit in question shall have been made with the government.

I have the honor to be

Sir,

Your obedient servant.

(Sgd.) E. W. ROY,
Secretary.

Extract from a report of the committee of the Honorable the Privy Council, approved by His Excellency on the 23rd Feb., '95. On a report dated 19th February, 1895, from the minister public works, submitting that at last session of parliament, the sum of $25,000 was voted for the purpose of constructing a bridge across the Saskatchewan river at Edmonton, N. W. T., the minister furnishing 25 per cent of the cost. The minister states that before proceeding with the preparation of the plans and specifications it was necessary that an examination be made and information obtained with reference to the best site to be found for the construction of the said bridge, and that upon such examination being made, two sites were represented as eligible, one situated near what is called the upper ferry and the second opposite the town of Edmonton proper and nearly at the point where the lower ferry is being operated.

The minister further states that from the various reports received and information obtained, he is satisfied that the site at the lower ferry, opposite the town of Edmonton, presents better facilities than the other, and further, that its selection has been urged by the townspeople of Edmonton, who have made their contribution mentioned in the vote contingent upon the bridge being constructed upon the lower site.

The minister, further states that, in ordering the plans and specifications to be prepared, he has given such an order having in view the construction upon the lower site, and he now recommends that such selection be approved, but that it be also understood, that no contract shall be given unless the corporation of the town of Edmonton shall have deposited with the government a sum equal to 25 per cent of the estimated cost of the bridge, said estimated cost being placed at $60,000. The committee submit the same for Your Excellency's approval.

Clerk of the Privy Council.

NAMAO.

Farmers in this district have been very busy lately getting rails and building timber houses.

Geo. Long has timber on the ground for a new building.

The new settlers who arrived from Nebraska, a few weeks ago, have located in township 36, range 24. They report the homesteads in that township nearly all taken up.

F. Smith has rented his farm for three years to Mr. Payzant.

More settlers from Nebraska are expected in a few days.

The R.T. of T. are having good meetings, two initiations last meeting and more to follow.

Miss Long who has been very ill lately is steadily recovering and has removed to Edmonton for a few weeks.

Miss Sutherland is progressing favorably.

Rev. M. Muldrew, of South Edmonton, preached an excellent sermon to a large congregation in the Sturgeon school house, last Sabbath.

Mr. Brown is suffering from a relapse of his grippe.

March 22nd, 1895.

OLDS.

The many friends in this district of the family of A. L. Ramsey, were shocked to learn of the death of their beloved young daughter, Lillian. Some three weeks ago she was taken down with diphtheritic sore throat, but all had learnt that she was recovering and hence the report was the more difficult to believe. But 'twas too true. Lillian Ramsey died Tuesday morning, at 4 o'clock, and her remains were laid to rest in the cool tomb yesterday at 1 o'clock. The funeral services will be conducted in the near future by Rev. Mr. McKay. The grief stricken family have the heartfelt sympathy of a wide circle of friends in this their great affliction.

Notwithstanding the bad condition of the roads, there was a very fair sized audience at Walker's Hall last evening, to listen to the special Neal Dow service under the auspices of the local Union Gospel Temperance League. The occasion was the celebrating of the 91st birthday anniversary of General Neal Dow of Maine, the father of prohibition. The service consisted of vocal and instrumental music, addresses and devotion and was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. A vacant chair draped and festooned with flowers occupied a suitable position on the rostrum and was there in honor of the departed little sister Lillian Ramsey. Neal Dow's birthday will be in the future to the parents and friends, an occasion of sad recollections of a noble little temperance worker, mingled with sweet memories of a gracious little lady.

The conservative association of this place by their actions, seem to think that a whiskey man is the one most capable of representing the Northwest in the common. A good clear headed man, with an "unstunted" intellect is the one who will get the support of a strong portion of the electors of the Olds district.

F. W. Hamill has a very neat specimen of his handwork on exhibition in the form of a grindstone, chiselled from the sandstone, found in such quantities in this district. The article is decorated very tastefully and the enameled lettering forms a pretty contrast with the color of the stone. Mr. Hamill intends sending the stone to the Regina exhibition.

Olds, March 21st, '95.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Arthabaskaville, Que.: Hon. Wilfrid Laurier is doing fairly well, but is unable to leave the house. The liberal leader is suffering from a severe cold and had been obliged to cancel some of his engagements in Ontario in consequence.

At the second liberal conservative convention held at Calgary on the 20th inst. A letter was read by Mr. Costigan, Q. C., asking Mr. T. W. Cochrane to place his name before this convention and pledging the delegates to support him if he secured nomination there. Cochrane's reply was read, politely declining the invitation. Costigan then moved seconded by J. Muir a very strong resolution denouncing the methods connected with the liberal conservative convention of the 13th March.

The circumstances of this country are such that Sir Mackenzie Bowell will not be able to please all parties by his action—whenever that may take place—on the Manitoba school question. In the meantime the poor man is bringing his grey hairs with sorrow to the grave of his political career by his cork like proceedings in trying to ride on top of the largest wave. We do not mean to imply that Sir Mackenzie Bowell will be unable to bring the Orange order of Ontario, of which he is a distinguished member, to act in obedience to the orders of the Quebec bishops because he has always been able to do that, and the latest telegrams from the east speak of Mr. Hughes, the grand master of the order, expressing views in accord with the petitioners of St. Boniface. It is with others out side the lodge that the premier is afraid to run a tilt, at the instigation of Monsieur Ouhmet, Sir Adolph Caron, Monsieur Angers and their spiritual directors. And he is in equal fear of declaring that he will not undertake this passage of arms, so that between 1 and 1000 his life, like that of the lyrical policeman, is not a happy one. But sooner or later he must speak, for the occasion is one that reverses the adage declaring speech to be silver and silence gold. His silence creates suspicion on both sides and nurses to greater proportions the wrath to come from one of them. Procrastination is the parent of danger, quite as much as the smother of difficulties and it is quite useless in the present condition of affairs.

The power of staying the course of time while he prepares for battle has not been inherited by Sir Mackenzie Bowell. He is by no means a Joshua, but merely an old politician in a deuce of a fix. Laurier has gone as far as constitutional propriety requires in the direction of assisting the government to a decision, but it is obviously the duty of Sir Mackenzie Bowell to state what the government proposes to do as well as to relieve business and the country generally from uncertainty as to when the elections will take place that no one can be surprised at the feeling rapidly growing in the conservative party that the present ministry is a divided and incompetent body and should even in the smaller interest of their own party be displaced. But if the present ministry is ruining the interests inherited from Sir John Macdonald and Sir John Thompson how much more are they playing havoc with the Dominion.—Free Press.

It is understood that D. W. Davis will not offer himself as a candidate for reelection. Regina, March 16.—The meeting called here to-day by J. K. McInnis, the independent candidate, was the largest ever held in the town hall. Mr. McInnis on entering was tendered a grand ovation. He proceeded at once to explain the grounds upon which he sought public support. He had supported the present government for years in the hope that the N. P. would produce some of the results predicted of it by those who introduced it. He continued that support in the hope that protection would be gradually withdrawn, and that tariff reform, of which Mr. Davis claimed to be father, would be introduced. Seeing that the attempts of the government to reform the tariff had been thwarted by the combines and that extreme protection was to be again the battle cry of the party, he fell in with the independent movement inaugurated by the patrons. On the prohibition question Mr. McInnis was equally outspoken. He charged Mr. Davis with inconsistency on this and other matters and with generally speaking on one side and voting on the other. Mr. Davis replied at some length, but the meeting was so decidedly against him that he wandered a good deal and did not succeed in meeting the charges.

THE GREAT QUESTION. The chance of a session of parliament being used as a sword to cut the gordian knot are few because what chances would a cabinet at war within itself have of controlling their followers in parliament. There is no authority to drag things out of the chaos they are in.

The cabinet have reached no decision on the school question. It is evident that the members of the cabinet are irreconcilably divided on the question, and moreover a certain line of policy mapped out four weeks ago cannot now be adhered to. It was then agreed in a general way that redress should be given to the Roman Catholics in Manitoba. Mr. McCarthy's arguments had, it is said, an effect on one or two of those ministers not specially concerned with the question at home. All the signs point to the existence of a serious crisis in the cabinet. If the opponents of a remedial order now prove so strong as to secure the adherence of the premier, all the Quebec ministers would be compelled to resign.

Despatches from the far East indicate the basis upon which terms of peace between Japan and China are to be concluded, assuming, as the latest advice appear to fore-shadow, that China will agree in the main to the terms proposed by Japan. This basis, in the first place, contemplates the permanent cession to Japan of the island of Formosa, a Chinese possession lying off the coast. The claim of China that Korea is dependency of hers is to be relinquished, and Korea is to be a independent. The Japanese are to be confirmed in the right to continue the occupation of the two important naval stations lately captured by her forces, namely, Port Arthur and Wei-hai-wei. Japan is to be granted extra-territorial jurisdiction in China, while the latter country is to surrender her extra-territorial jurisdiction in Japan. There is to be, it would seem, no extension of Japanese territory on the mainland of Asia, but there is to be a heavy cash indemnity paid by China, amounting, it is said, to more than $100,000,000 in gold. It is understood that Li Hung Chang, the Chinese plenipotentiary, has been instructed by his government to accede to the demands of Japan.
